Claims 1-4 and 6-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cohn (2002/0010651).

Cohn discloses a method and corresponding product and apparatus for establishing connections comprising in a data processing system, of registering services in a taxonomy, comprising: receiving a registration request at the data processing system, the registration request including a service description and an identification of a category within the taxonomy in which the service is to be registered, determining if the service description should be registered in the identified category based on a canonical service description associated with the category; and registering the service description in the identified category using the data processing system if the determination is that the service description should be registered in the identified category and if it is determined that the service description should not be registered in the category, determining whether a request to add a new category is received (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the canonical service description identifies minimum criteria for the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein registering the service description in the category includes storing the service description and an associated model description in a storage in association with the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the method is implemented in a service broker within at least one network (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein if a request to add a new category is received, a determination is made as to whether to add the new category, and wherein if the new category is added, the service description is registered in association with the new category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the canonical service description includes information identifying minimum requirements of the category regarding one or more of security requirements, privacy requirements and communication protocol requirements (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein if it is determined that the service description should not be registered in the category, the method further comprises: searching the taxonomy for an alternate category in which the service description should be registered and registering the service description in the alternate category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes searching one or more of sibling, parent and child categories of the identified category within a predetermined range of the identified category in the taxonomy (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes searching the taxonomy for a category in which the service description meets requirements of a canonical service description associated with the alternate category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); a computer program product in a computer readable medium for registering services in a taxonomy, comprising: first instructions for receiving a registration request, the registration request including a service description and an identification of a category within the taxonomy in which the service is to be registered; second instructions for determining if the service description should be registered in the identified category based on a canonical service description associated with the category and third instructions for registering the service description in the identified category if the determination is that the service description should be registered in the identified category, wherein the canonical service description identifies minimum criteria for the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the third instructions for registering the service description in the category includes instructions for storing the service description and an associated model description in a storage in association with the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the computer program product is executed in a service broker within at least one network (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); instructions for determining whether a request to add a new category is received, if it is determined that the service description should not be registered in the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); fifth instructions for determining whether to add the new category, if a request to add a new category is received, and sixth instructions for registering the service description in association with the new category, if the new category is added (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the canonical service description includes information identifying minimum requirements of the category regarding one or more of security requirements, privacy requirements and communication protocol requirements (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); instructions for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category in which the service description should be registered if the result of execution of the second instructions is that the service description should not be registered in the category and fifth instructions for registering the service description in the alternate category if an alternate category is identified by execution of the fourth instructions (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the fourth instructions for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes instructions for searching one or more of sibling, parent and child categories of the identified category within a predetermined range of the identified category in the taxonomy (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the fourth instructions for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes instructions for searching the taxonomy for a category in which the service description meets requirements of a canonical service description associated with the alternate category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); apparatus for registering services in a taxonomy, comprising: means for receiving a registration request, the registration request including a service description and an identification of a category within the taxonomy in which the service is to be registered, means for determining if the service description should be registered in the identified category based on a canonical service description associated with the category, and means for registering the service description in the identified category if the determination is that the service description should be registered in the identified category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the canonical service description identifies minimum criteria for the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the means for registering the service description in the category includes means for storing the service description and an associated model description in a storage in association with the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the apparatus is part of a service broker within at least one network (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); means for determining whether a request to add a new category is received if it is determined that the service description should not be registered in the category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); means for determining whether to add the new category, if a request to add a new category is received, and means for registering the service description in association with the new category, if the new category is added (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the canonical service description includes information identifying minimum requirements of the category regarding one or more of security requirements, privacy requirements and communication protocol requirements (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); means for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category in which the service description should be registered if the means for determining indicates that the service description should not be registered in the category; and means for registering the service description in the alternate category if an alternate category is identified by the means for searching (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); wherein the means for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes means for searching one or more of sibling, parent and child categories of the identified category within a predetermined range of the identified category in the taxonomy (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b); and wherein the means for searching the taxonomy for an alternate category includes means for searching the taxonomy for a category in which the service description meets requirements of a canonical service description associated with the alternate category (para.60-66 and fig.3a, 17a-b).
